

LAW ENFORCEMENT COMMISSION FACES MANY PROBLEMS

So Divided in Views Reports Will Provoke Group Controversy

DENY MANY RUMORS

Can't Agree As To Commission's Right to Propose Any Law Change

By George R. Holmes
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—President Hoover's law enforcement commission is so divided in its views on prohibition that it is wholly unlikely it can produce any reports which will not be the subject of controversy among its own members, much less the public.

Since the commission went into retirement some days ago to wrestle with its problem all sorts of rumors have flitted about. It has been variously reported that the commission would ultimately recommend retention of the 18th Amendment, that it would endorse modification of the Volstead Act to 4 per cent beer, that it would favor a sort of modified Canadian system of control, and that it would propose a national constitutional convention to solve the liquor problem.

All of these rumors have been denied at one stage or another, and seemingly with some justice.

The fact is, according to the most authoritative sources, that the commissioners are so badly split that they not only cannot agree on what changes, if any, are to be recommended in existing law, but they cannot agree as to the fundamental right of the commission to propose any change in any law.

Several members take the view that it is not within the province of the commission to recommend changes in the laws; that it is the sole duty of the commission to suggest ways and means of securing better enforcement of the laws now existent. They point to the name of the body itself, as given it by President Hoover, "The National Commission on Law Observation and Enforcement." There is nothing in that title, they say, that suggests any law revision.

A majority of the commission, however, does not agree with this view. But even in the majority that does not agree there is no unanimity of opinion as to just how far the commission may go in proposing modification.

Miss Rose Denny Much Surprised With Party

Mrs. Frank Peters, of Pond street, entertained a number of friends in honor of her daughter, Rose Denny, on Sunday afternoon. Miss Denny, who had been visiting relatives in Chestnut Hill for several days, returned home on Sunday and much to her surprise, found the guests awaiting her arrival. Everybody present had an enjoyable afternoon.

The guests included: Mrs. Annie Pauletta, Mrs. Hilda Rich, Mrs. Mary Squillace, Mrs. Anna Sagolla, Mrs. Charles Capella, Mrs. Mary Capella, Mrs. Florence Denny, Mrs. Carmella Salcone, Mrs. Frank Peters, Mrs. Lena Chalella, Misses Adeline, Trixie and Florence Arcelle, Frances, Lillian and Annie Denny, of Bristol; and Mrs. Louise Polio, of Trenton.

ANNUAL ROLL CALL OF RED CROSS PROCEEDING AT A BRISK PACE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 18.—With memberships coming in faster and in greater numbers than in many previous years, the Fourteenth Annual Roll Call of the Red Cross is proceeding at a brisk pace in Philadelphia and the four adjoining counties of Bucks, Delaware, Montgomery and Chester.

The goal for this territory which constitutes the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Red Cross, is 175,000 members. To fail will be disastrous, according to the message just received from Judge John Barton Payne, national chairman.

"In the present Roll Call, the Red Cross faces serious and exceptional demands," Judge Payne wrote in his message to Colonel J. Franklin McFadden, chairman of the Southeastern Pennsylvania chapter, who is directing the roll call. "These demands call for the earnest devotion, the courage, and the persistent effort of all men and women working for the Red Cross."

"We must all measure up to the extraordinary demands of this troubled time, and make the roll call a success. The Red Cross has its own great responsibilities and must strengthen its forces to meet them."

The system of support for the National Organization, by which fifty cents from every dollar contributed to the Chapters is sent to Washington, virtually necessitates chapter success in each membership enrollment. A failure to sign up sufficient members not only weakens the chapters and leaves them with deficits in the annual budget, but also means a depleted disaster relief fund which is maintained in Washington to protect the country in times of national catastrophe.

The first member to swing into the ranks of the chapter was Harry A. Mackey, Mayor of Philadelphia. Taking out one of the larger forms of membership, Mayor Mackey declared "Every citizen should support the Red Cross. No one can predict when or where disaster may occur, or acute emergency arise. The American Red Cross represents our community insurance against such misfortune."

Gifford Pinchot, Governor-Elect of Pennsylvania, also was one of the earliest members enrolled for 1931. Pausing in the midst of busy conferences, Mr. Pinchot signed up at a Red Cross booth expressing his pleasure in again joining forces with the great Organization of Mercy.

There are fifteen thousand volunteers busily at work carrying the Red Cross appeal to "Join or Rejoin" to every corner of the five counties. They report extraordinarily friendly cooperation everywhere. The fact that the Red Cross, this year, confronts an emergency situation that has not been paralleled since the War, is bringing swift and sympathetic response.

Women booth-workers say that humble working people bring in their memberships in the form of small change which has been laboriously

WORKERS' STRIKE PARALYZES SPAIN

BARCELONA, Nov. 18.—(INS)—With Barcelona paralyzed by a general strike of 200,000 workers, violence occurred in various sections of the city today, resulting in injuries to a number of persons. Several strikers were shot and wounded when police charged an unruly mob which attempted to prevent resumption of street car service. Resistance on the part of the demonstrators forced police to open fire in their midst. Minor clashes were reported elsewhere in the city. Fights took place in front of factories where strikers attempted to force laborers to throw down their tools, while a number of skirmishes occurred in the public markets when strike leaders tried to prevent open-air merchants from selling food. Local authorities expressed the belief the walk-out would terminate tonight despite the concerted efforts of Communists and United Syndicalists to extend the strike indefinitely.

A. O. H. CAGE SEASON GETS UNDER WAY

Two Games Played and Much Interest Manifested In the League

REQUIRE EXTRA PERIOD

Schedule for Wednesday Night
RAMBLERS vs. WILDCATS
RANGERS vs. TIGERS

By T. M. Juno
With the shadow of football resting in the background, the opening games of the A. O. H. Basketball League were played last night on the Hibernians' floor. The first game of the evening went to the Tigers. The White Elephants were the losers by the count of 42-33. However, it took the Tigers three extra five-minute periods before the winning points were scored. In the second game of the evening, the Wildcats were victorious over the Rangers by the score of 17-10.

The Tigers-White Elephants affair was one of the best ever seen on the Hib's floor. The score was tied six times during the game and again at the end of regular forty-minute game. As a result an extra period was played but after this was over the score was again at a deadlock. Another extra five minute quarter was played and as in the other the teams were evenly matched and both netted two field goals to even the count of 33 all.

At the opening of the third extra period, George Dougherty countered with a twin-point and this was followed with another by John Mulligan.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Agitation in Morrisville to Purchase Ladder Truck for Fire Companies—Sellersville Man Charged With Resisting Arrest—Perkasie Firemen Deny They Sent Out "Blanket Alarm" for Fire Companies.

Kenneth Fretz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ely Fretz, and a teacher in the junior high school of Quakertown, has accepted the Scoutmastership of the new Scout troop, known as the Quakertown Troop No. 2.

Rev. Ira Frantz, a native of Newtown, has been elected pastor of St. John's Reformed Church in Fullerton, and will be installed early in December. Mr. Frantz was ordained in 1927 and has been serving a charge in Clinton, Ohio.

There is considerable agitation in Morrisville favoring the purchase by Union Fire Company of a hook and ladder fire truck. The Union Fire Company is practically unanimous in favor of the truck, but at the present time there are several members of Council opposed to the plan, holding that such a piece of fire apparatus is not needed in Morrisville.

Charged with having struck Officer Frank Hallman as he was about to place him under arrest after he is alleged to have created a disturbance in the Boyer restaurant at Sellersville Saturday evening, Frank Aliff, aged about 25 years, was given a hearing before Justice A. C. Groff.

Aliff, who is said to have been in trouble on previous occasions, was in the Boyer restaurant about 11 o'clock Saturday evening, when he is alleged to have started a disturbance. Chief of Police Frank Hallman was called to the scene and apparently the young man, who was said to have been under the influence of liquor, did not take kindly to the appearance of the officer and as the latter was about to place the young man under arrest, he turned on the chief and struck him.

BUCKINGHAM'S FARM SHOW IS TOMORROW

Classes for Boys and Girls Have Been Arranged

TO OFFER PRIZES

BUCKINGHAM, Nov. 18.—At a recent meeting of the Farm Products Show committee of Buckingham community the following classes were arranged and prizes of ribbons will be awarded in each class.

The show will be held on November 19, at Grange Hall, and will be judged by William F. Greenawalt, county agent, and Miss Ethel Beadles, home economics worker.

The committee this year is especially anxious to interest the juniors in this work, and classes for boys in farm products and for the girls in baking and sewing are provided.

All the school children of the township are invited to participate. Classes are as follows:

Corn: Golden Queen, Lane Sure Crop, White Cap, all other yellow, white corn.

Three men were required to restrain Aliff as the handcuffs were placed on him.

Perkasie Fire Department officials have disclaimed "any responsibility whatever" for the wholesale summoning of apparatus, which took 17 companies and more than twice as many pumpers to Bedminsterville, Nov. 9, with a resultant loss of one life and the injury of several other firemen and the needless imperiling of safety of automobilists.

Disturbed somewhat by the declaration of James E. Groome, president of Bucks County Firemen's Association, that the "blanket alarm" summoning every company, practically, within thirty miles of Perkasie, was an "absurd course," Perkasie officials and the department called only companies at Quakertown, Sellersville, Souder-ton and Chalfont. This was confirmed by records at the local telephone exchange.

Charles A. Rowe, Jr., four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Rowe, of "Rowland Farm," Yardley, near here, was struck and instantly killed on his father's farm by a truck driven by the helper, Burhele Johnson, Friday.

Johnson, accompanied by Charles, Jr., and the latter's two brothers, George and Kendall, had gone to the field to pick up corn. They had been hauling the corn to the barn by wagon, but due to the storm, hastened to get the grain under shelter, and used the truck for the last trip.

They had gathered all the corn in one row and turned to pick up some other piles, and the lad, who was running along with his brothers fell over

Engagement of Miss Ponzio and Mr. Straffe Announced

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Saverio Ponzio, 615 Cedar street, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Theresa Ponzio, to Patsy Straffe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Straffe, 1020 Wood street.

The affair took the form of a party at which 150 guests were entertained. The rooms of the Ponzio home were beautifully decorated in blue and white. Refreshments were served and dancing was indulged in throughout the evening, music being furnished by a local orchestra.

During the evening Miss Katherine Lanza, of Washington street, gave a number of vocal solos, which were splendidly received. Little William Della, of Otter street, also sang "Dancing With Tears In My Eyes."

The guests departed at a late hour, wishing success and happiness to the future bride and groom.

Miss Ponzio was the recipient of numerous beautiful and useful gifts.

LANGHORNE'S CIVIL WAR "VET" RECALLS THE PAST

A. C. Colby Only Surviving "Vet" in Langhorne Section

WAS WITH SHERMAN

LANGHORNE, Nov. 18.—This borough has but one surviving veteran of the Civil War, A. C. Colby, residing on East Maple avenue, just east of the borough line. Despite his advanced age Mr. Colby is remarkably active, and takes a lively interest in life and doings of the community.

He is fond of automobiling, and may be seen daily driving about the community. He and his daughter drive to Florida each fall and return in the spring, with a special effort to be present at the Memorial Day exercises in Langhorne and Hultmeville. They will start very soon on their Southern tour.

Since Martindell Post, G. A. R., of Langhorne, ceased to exist following the death of all the members except Mr. Colby, he joined the post at Miami, Florida, where he makes his winter home. Mr. Colby attends the sessions of the National Encampment of the G. A. R. whenever possible, and last August went to Cincinnati, Ohio, to this gathering.

Mr. Colby celebrated his 85th birthday on October 20, yet his mind is alert and he can tell very entertainingly about his experiences in camp, on the march and in battle in Civil War days. He and two of his brothers joined the First New York Light Artillery in November, 1863, and served more than a year in the war, yet all escaped without a wound.

They were in Sherman's army, and fought their way from Lookout Valley to Atlanta. Here they were cut off from their communications by Hood's army, which had swung around them, and their condition was getting serious when Sherman started on his famous march to the sea. The army moved in three divisions on its course to Savannah. Private property was not destroyed, although there was naturally constant foraging for food. Railroad bridges were burned and the tracks torn up to stop the Confederates following the Yankees. The ties were taken up from the railroad tracks and placed in piles with the rails on top of them to get the benefit of the heat from the burning ties, and then the rails while hot were twisted so as to make it impossible for them to be used again.

Among the battles in which the Colbys were engaged were those of Aversboro and Bentonville.

NEWS GATHERED FROM AROUND THE WORLD TODAY

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 18.—(INS)— Coast Guards also rescued the crew of the Tattler, which grounded attempting Fayette county attorney who last week shot and killed himself, his wife and the couple's three children, had carefully planned to wipe out his family were seen here today with the filing of Playflore's will for probate.

A significant tone pervaded a codicil to the will which was scrawled in lead pencil. The codicil, believed to have been added to the testament just a week before Playflore annihilated his family, was discovered in a safety deposit box in a local bank. It read, in part:

"In the event of the death of my wife and all my children, before my death, I give all my estate to my brother Charlie, and my sister Blanche—if my wife and all my children pre-decease me, then I give to the Union Cemetery $500 in trust for the maintenance of the Playflore burying lot."

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(INS)—An attempt to rescue the crew of 36 men on the freighter Harry Bowen aground off Montauk Point, was to be made today. The crew spent the night on the stranded vessel but this morning was reported safe.

The Harry Bowen went aground in a heavy fog, described as one of the worst in years, which blanketed the entire Atlantic seaboard yesterday. Twenty-three fishermen were rescued in lifeboats from the trawler Petrel, which went ashore on Block Island.

TOLD TO LEAVE BUCKS COUNTY FOR FIVE YEARS

Landscape Gardener is Reprimanded by Judge for His Actions

COULDN'T HOLD HIM

Alleged Offense Was Not Committed in Pennsylvania, Girl Says

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 18.—Albert Briggs, 29, a landscape gardener who was employed on the construction job of a new highway between Dublin and Quakertown, was discharged yesterday by President Judge Hiram H. Keller after it was learned that Bucks County had no jurisdiction to hold him on a criminal charge committed against a 14-year-old Perkasie girl.

Briggs, whose home is in Westerly, Rhode Island, has a common law wife living in Perkasie. According to the information filed in the case, Briggs enticed Catherine Kohl, 14, to leave with him on September 25, this year. They were traced to Huntingdon, Tenn., where they were arrested by Sheriff J. C. Butler on October 4. Briggs was placed in the county prison and the girl was taken to her home.

According to the girl no offense was committed by Briggs in Pennsylvania. "Your conduct is about the lowest of any man for your age that I have ever heard," Judge Keller informed Briggs. "We are going to suspend sentence on condition that you get out of Bucks county and remain out for five years."

Briggs' wife informed Judge Keller that she would go back to Rhode Island with him.

The Court granted a divorce in the case of Sigmund Glocker against Helen Glocker, on condition that the costs will be paid.

Melvin Gibson, colored, of Bristol, pleaded guilty to a charge of carrying concealed deadly weapons and aggravated assault and battery. It was testified that Gibson, the son of a colored preacher in Bristol, shot Lucius Burk, colored, on Halloween night. The defendant told Judges Keller and Boyer that he carried a gun as a protection from highway robbers and that the shooting of Burk was accidental. A fine of $100 and costs was imposed. Gibson was placed on probation for one year.

Judges Keller and Boyer refused to parole Ellwood Richardson and Joseph Kohler, of Bristol, charged with larceny and receiving stolen goods. They stole wire from a railroad yard and were recently sentenced to serve from three to six months. The parole was refused unless it can be shown by the attorney for the boys that a position can be secured for them.

Three opinions were handed down. Judge Boyer refused a new trial in the case of H. Henry Brown, of Warmintown township, against William R. Sinkler. In the case of Mary Bruzas against the Sellersville National Bank, the rule for judgment was discharged with leave to the defendant to file an affidavit of defense as to the facts within fifteen days, in an opinion handed down by Judge Boyer.

In the Orphans' Court, exceptions to the auditor's report were dismissed and the report confirmed by Judge Boyer in an opinion handed down in the case of the estate of Ella Gardner, deceased.

UTILIZING CRIME

Modern science has robbed three of Solomon's nature puzzles—the way of the serpent on the rock, the way of the ship on the sea and the way of an eagle in the air—of their mysteries, and left only his fourth, the way of a man with a maid, to confound the wise.

But if that wise man were given to revise his list, he would doubtless replace at least one of his revealed mysteries with that which lurks in the way of certain prosecuting attorneys in dealing with crime. The public of this generation has witnessed the development of a spectacular method of crime prosecution that those of former days never dreamed of. In the past the perpetration of crime was the signal for closing of lips on the part of prosecutors and an intensive application to the task of solving criminal problems. But now, so the fashion sets, the prosecuting attorney seems prone to seize on the self-publicity advantages of crimes done in his bailiwick with the avidity of a circus press agent.

If the victims are notable or notorious and if the staging of the crime is sufficiently gruesome to rouse the interest of the public, the prosecutor, of certain type, immediately strikes a Sherlock Holmes attitude and lets the world hear him think. If he has clues, he advertises them—presumably to let the public know how sharp and observing and deductive he is.

Of course, this is a warning to the guilty and keeps them enlightened as to what move of the state to expect and to block, but it gives the prosecutor an opportunity to get on the front page of the daily press—and that seems to be his main object.

SEASONABLE ADVICE

The old warning, "Do your Christmas shopping early," is an annoying platitude, no doubt, but nevertheless it is a word to the wise. Only the owners and employees of the stores know the immense thought, effort and plan that precede the Christmas season. No sooner is one ended than preparation for the next begins. The world is searched for goods far ahead of the holidays. They are shipped, stored, held in readiness. Then, many weeks before Christmas, they are put on display and placed in stock. There can be no last-minute preparedness. Therefore the early shopper has the pick of the market, an opportunity to see and examine a full, new, scintillating collection, and time in which to judge and make up his mind.

Gradually this opportunity departs as stores become crowded and stocks are depleted. The golden days slip by, never to return. The strain on clerks and delivery men grows greater as the holiday approaches; it is not their fault if service slackens and personal attention becomes a matter of growing doubt. It is not the blame of managers if the supply of goods fails and cannot be renewed.

The postoffice, by annual campaigns many times repeated, has fairly well educated the public into the necessity of early mailing. Therefore do your Christmas shopping early, and before December is half gone, feel the satisfaction of a good job accomplished and out of the way, leaving a clear field for untired holiday rejoicing.

Big kernels in small shells

IN ADDITION to the advertisements of the big department stores, of the grocery and hardware stores, of the millinery, clothing and shoe stores, there is another kind of advertising that is being read more and more by readers of this newspaper. That kind of advertising is the Classified Columns.

A man or woman wants a job. They read the "Help Wanted" columns and probably insert an advertisement of their own under "Positions Wanted." Employer and job seeker soon get together to the benefit of both. A man may want an automobile—possibly he cannot afford a new car, so he looks in the "Used Car" columns and finds just the car at the price he can afford to pay. Someone has lost a pocketbook, valuable papers or even a pet dog. The "Lost and Found" columns soon bring loser and finder together.

The Classified Columns are so arranged that anyone can readily find what he seeks quickly — business news, machinery and tools, household goods, horses, dogs, cats, canaries, etc. They enable you to locate what you are looking for in short order. So in reading advertising do not overlook the classified columns—the individual advertisements do not take up much room, but like the meaty nut they may contain a big kernel in a small shell—just for you.

Hail! Hail! the Ladies of the House

Mrs. RUTH BAKER PRATT.

Election Day brought reversal of political fortune to many who had for years been notable figures in the legislation of the nation. When the next House meets, even though Democrats and Republicans are almost sitting in an even balance, it will boast of feminine leaders of political thought and endeavor who are yearly growing in representation of feminine legislators in affairs of the nation. They are Ruth Pratt, New York;

Edith Nourse Rogers, Massachusetts; Florence P. Kahn, Calif.; Ruth Bryan Owen, Florida; Otis Wingo, Arkansas; and Mrs. Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey.

Tom Rodgers' Wildcats went on a scoring rampage in the second half of their contest with the Rangers and as a result topped that team by the count of 17-10.

The first half of this ended 6-5 and it looked as if another close battle was in store for the fans. But early in the second half McGinley scored his first field goal of the season and this started the works going which did not stop until the team held a 17-7 advantage. In the closing minutes of play the Rangers scored three more points to no avail.

The public is invited to attend all the games of the league with an admission being charged. The games will be played on Mondays and Thursdays and then sometimes on a Wednesday night.

The teams in the league with their managers are:
Tigers, Neal McDevitt; Wildcats, Tom Rodgers; Ramblers, Paddy Waters; Rangers, Vivian Potts; and White Elephants, James Dolan.

cast, will be "simple and impressive," Dr. Oscar F. R. Treder, rector of St. Stephen's Church, said.

A requiem service for Bishop Darlington was held this forenoon with the Rev. George E. Jenners, of Danville, officiating at the Holy Communion.

Clerical and lay delegates from all sections of the diocese were present for the services and for the convention at which a successor to Bishop Darlington will be named.

The special diocesan meeting for the election will open at 7.30 p. m. tonight and will continue tomorrow. The Rev. Lewis Nichols, of Lock Haven, chairman of the standing committee of the diocese, will preside at the convention until a permanent chairman is named.

Seventy-eight clerical and between 125 and 130 lay delegates will cast votes representing 96 parishes of the diocese for a new bishop.

A two-thirds vote is necessary to elect. Any priest who is 30 years old is eligible for election, Dr. Treder said. Bishop Darlington, long prominent in church and civic circles, died at Kingston, N. Y., on August 14, last, after an extended illness.

IN MEMORY OF HELEN DICK

Our dear little Helen, you left us today.
Your spirit has gone to that land far away.
We'll miss you, dear Sunshine, but happy you'll be
In that realm of true love, of world cares so free.
Oh, pardon our tears shed in sorrow and grief;
We mourn our great loss, for your stay was so brief.
Your patience in pain was a marvel to see,
But now of all suffering you will be free.

Oh, dear little Angel, now pray for our soul,
And make others' happiness only our goal.
Oh, teach us to love one another each day,
So when life ends for us we'll all go your way.

saved, so that the possessor may "do his bit" for the Red Cross.

Students at the University of Pennsylvania are campaigning vigorously to sign up their fellow-classesmen 100% for the Red Cross this year. Industrial firms are urging their employees to swing in unanimously, so that the establishments may qualify for one of the coveted 100% banners. Rotary Clubs and other business organizations are urging their members to take higher form memberships.

Organizations working for ex-service men are reporting numerous memberships; the Knights of Columbus have already enrolled several hundred strong. Clergymen, in every part of the chapter, are urging upon their flocks the Red Cross need and the imperative necessity for a large enrollment in 1931.

"It will be amazing to everyone that the United States is not, and has not for years, been adequately supporting its Red Cross," Colonel McFadden stated in his roll call message to the Red Cross Volunteers. "The reserve left from the World War, from which all deficits were paid, is now depleted and the vanishing point is in sight."

Wizard of Menlo Park Defends Golden-Rod

Drought of Past Summer Increased Misery of Persons Afflicted with Hay Fever, Many of Whom Destroyed Acres of Harmless Plants—and Raise the Slogan "Root Up the Ragweed"

RAGWEED POLLEN FOUND IN AIR UP TO ALTITUDES OF 5000 FEET

THOMAS A. EDISON

GATHERING POLLEN OF RAGWEED TO MAKE POLLEN CULTURE

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Despite the snorts and sneezes of the huge army of hay fever sufferers, dat old debbil golden-rod is not to be blamed for their plight. So says Thomas A. Edison, who writes letters to his local paper just like any other citizen who wants to get a load off his chest.

Edison has just written a vigorous defense of the golden-rod plant to the editor of his local newspaper, a letter that states emphatically that "it would be folly to eliminate the golden-rod." Edison says that the pollen of the plant is carried entirely by insects, and that, as it is so heavy, it is blown only a few feet away from the flower. He writes of the Gaspe Peninsula, in Canada, where there is much golden-rod and no sign or mention of hay fever or pollen fever as it is sometimes named.

The terrific droughts experienced throughout the country this year tended to increase the number and misery of the sneezers. Many of them, driven almost to frenzy, organized parties and went on a golden-rod rampage, destroying many acres of the plant. But, according to Mr. Edison, their zealous campaign was entirely misdirected. And he is supported in his stand by many medical men and botanists, who argue the innocence of golden-rod. Those who disagree with Edison say that, as he has declared that golden-rod is the plant that will provide a reserve supply of rubber, he is anxious to see that it should not be exterminated. But the number of scientists who support the Edison contention acent golden-rod would seem to take the edge off that statement.

Hay fever has been making the world miserable for many centuries. It was in 1817 that the medical world took cognizance of it and named the unpleasant ailment "Summer catarrh."

It was found that pollen was the underlying cause of hay fever and, although not universally subscribed to, this theory is still generally accepted. It is said that pollen declares certain highly irritating chemicals, chemicals which, when inhaled, play havoc with the nasal passages.

Although ever so many plants and trees give off pollen, it is believed that the pollen from the ragweed was caught by the golden rod, with resultant misery to those susceptible to hay fever. And as the ragweed is the greatest offender in disseminating pollen, the golden-rod, which is its nearest companion, gets all the blame.

All sorts of treatment have been devised to aid the sufferers. The most effective is inoculation. Several pollen cultures are injected into the arm of the sufferer, and the doctor waits to see which injection it is that causes the arm to swell and become inflamed. After that a series of inoculations introduced, always increasing in quantity. This year a four-day treatment was devised that brought immunity to many chronic sufferers. The treatment is usually administered a week or so before the opening of the hay fever season.

The more fortunate victims seek a surcease from their suffering by a change of climate. And some wealthy men are going to build a club and hotel far up in New Hampshire's White Mountains, where members of the Union Hay Fever Club may seek freedom from the ailment. And for those less fortunate in worldly goods, hospitals and clinics the country over are giving treatments at a moderate cost and, in many instances, gratis. It is hoped through inoculations and campaigns that the hay fever may be mustered out.
